

AROUND THE GIN WORLD

Discover the history of gin, explore its unknown types or try different tonics to find the perfect gin tonic for you.

London Dry

It is the most popular type of gin in the world that began writing its history in the 17th century. The interesting thing is that the gin of this kind does not have to be exceptionally dry, neither made exclusively in London. BLOOM, a premium gin from London, was inspired by the true natural beauty. It comes from Joanne Moore's workshop. She combined the perfect floral notes enriched by chamomile and pomelo in this gin. This is the ideal gin for tonic with strawberries.

Contemporary gin

This is a gin, in which the other component exceeds the juniper base. It is often a herb, spices or even a flower. This breathtaking Spanish gin inspired by Mediterranean flavors is made from plants such as arbequina olive, rosemary, thyme, basil, and tangerine. The result of this is a breathtaking drink that has received great praise from critics.

Barrel Aged

This gin is influenced by barrels in which it is distilled and sweet tones. The maturation period can be a few months, but also 10 years. A mature Colombian gin is coming to us from the wise minds and talented hands that have created the Dictador Rum. Using a vegetable selection based on limon mandarina, a hybrid of tangerine, orange and lemon, they have created an amazing gin with distinctive citrus and gave it the magnificent name Treasure. After the distillation, it matures for 35 weeks in rum barrels, thanks to which it will accentuate and round off its taste.

Sloe Gin

Gin base plus sloes. It is more liqueur than gin, but very popular for its lightness and fruity tones. Monkey 47 Sloe gin is spicy, complexly made alcohol produced by macerating black forest sloes for the period of three months.

COGNAC vs BRANDY

Metaxa

Three types of sun-dried wine grapes are used for the production of Metaxa, then they are distilled and aged for at least three years in oak barrels. The number of years of maturation is indicated on the bottles by the number of stars. After the maturing process, the distillate is mixed with the archival vintage of the mace and the secret mixture of Greek herbs.

Sarajishvili

Georgian brandy Sarajishvili XO is produced according to classic technology - it is made from fifteen different types of brandy from the unique collection of David Sarajishvili. The average age of these alcohols is 14-18 years, but its composition is also enriched with alcohols up to 30 years old.

Godet Ice cognac

Although the premium brand of French cognac Godet has begun writing its history since 1782, its roots go even deeper. In March 2008, Jean-Jacques Godet took a sailing trip to the South Pole. Godet Antarctica was created as a tribute to this exceptional accomplishment. Jean-Jacques Godet was mainly inspired by the purity and fineness of the Antarctic country and created this crystal clear drink.

Courvasier

Courvoisier is one of the four major cognac houses in the world. Legend has it that Emperor Napoleon himself chose Courvoisier as his preferred cognac, and therefore the cognac Courvoisier is often called "Napoleon's Cognac". The company was founded in 1828 and since then has its headquarters in a little city called Jarnac. With prestigious bottles such as Courvoisier Napoleon or Josephine, Courvoisier belongs to the top of the luxury spirits market.
